ORDER OF BUSINESS

A. Interview to Fill Two Commissioner Vacancies on the Commission on Aging

Carol Boatner stepped up for her interview, and mentioned that she has been on the Commission on Aging for two years and that she is interested in concerns involving the aging. She also noted that transportation for the aging and a stand-alone senior center should be addressed.

Norma Henderson stepped up for her interview, and noted that she has been on the Commission on Aging and enjoys working with senior citizens. She also noted that she has done volunteer work for the senior nutrition program.

B. Interview to Fill Two Commissioners Vacancies on the Santa Paula Housing Authority Commission

Deputy City Clerk Josephine G. Herrera noted that Shirlee O'Malley had submitted her written request to withdraw her application for the Housing Authority Commission. She also noted that DeeDee Chambers had submitted her written request asking that her interview be rescheduled because she was currently attending a Housing Authority conference in Texas.

Cynthia Rodriguez stepped up for her interview and noted that she previously served on the Housing Authority Commission as a Tenant Commissioner. She responded to questions regarding unmet housing needs, her experience as a Section 8 recipient, and the Housing Authority's delivery of service.

Florence Zakrajshek stepped up for her interview and noted that she has served on the Housing Authority Commission for many years. She responded to questions regarding unmet housing needs, subsidized housing programs, and the Housing Authority's delivery of service.

C. Interview to Fill Three Member Vacancies on the Economic Development Advisory Committee

John Chamberlain stepped up for his interview and stated that he was excited about the possibility of bringing growth to Santa Paula. He responded to questions regarding goals for the Economic Development Advisory Committee and his availability for attending monthly meetings.

Susan Kulwiec stepped up for her interview and stated that she feels she can bring a different view to the committee with her design and aesthetic background. She responded to questions regarding improving the aesthetics to the downtown and defending public art.

Michael Miller stepped up for his interview and stated his interest in redevelopment and facilitating an urban environment. He responded to questions regarding his background in the areas of economy and his views on smart growth.

CITY COMMUNICATIONS

City Manager Wally Bobkiewicz mentioned that there would be some changes to the 6:30 p.m. Regular City Council Meeting agenda, and that Police Chief Robert S. Gonzales would provide a report prior to Presentations. He also mentioned that an addendum was made to the Regular City Council Meeting agenda last Friday.
